Found the Note

"I came into the hotel and found a note for me in my mail box. I called the room out of curiosity. This girl asked if I would see her. Said it was important."

"I went up to the room. She said 'Come in for just a minute.' I went in and I said 'What do you want?'"

"She stepped aside and I went over toward a window. I looked around and she had a rifle in her hand. I thought at first it was a practical joke. I thought the player had played it."

"She said 'You're not going to shoot me any more?' Then she said 'I think I'll shoot you now.' I thought she was crazy. I thought she was crazy."

Finance, Traffic And Parking Are Major Problems of Cities

JEFFERSON CITY, June 18.—Finance, traffic and parking are the three major problems of cities, Mayor C. L. Barbarick, of Springfield, said here today.

Barbarick was speaking to the Missouri Traffic Engineering conference which began a three-day conference here today.

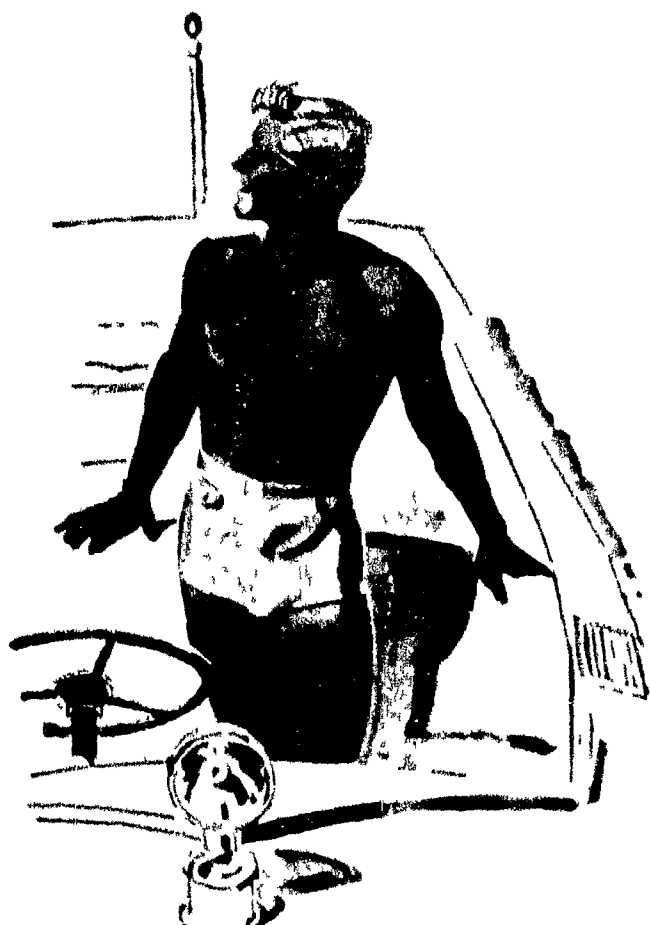

Barbarick said one-way streets, now being used in the larger cities, are coming to smaller communities to make traffic more liquid.

Cities should encourage off-street parking as much as possible and businessmen should be encouraged to provide parking space in the downtown area, he said.

He urged the legislature to pass a law which would require

Would Ask the FBI to Check On Article

Lilienthal Says Statement Made Is 'Distorted'
By Roger D. Greene
WASHINGTON, June 17 (AP)—David E. Lilienthal said Thursday an article in this month's "Nation's Business" may violate security regulations, and that he will ask the FBI to check on it.
The article is entitled "Is the Atomic 'Secret'?" by William Bradford Huie. It is in the June issue.
Lilienthal, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, told the Senate-House atomic committee that the article is "inaccurate," "reckless and irresponsible," and that it contains "certain statements" regarding "highly classified pieces of information."
He said these pertained to the present A-bomb and an "inferential" as to the number of weapons in the stockpile.
Furthermore, he said, there is "a curious and distorted statement" of what should now be in the stockpile.
Rep. Price (D-Ill.) called for a complete investigation of what he called "leaks" affecting our national security. He also said that he thinks there's a drive on to discredit the Atomic Energy Commission in the eyes of the American people.
"Nation's Business" is published by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.
Its editor, Lawrence F. Hurley, refused to comment on Lilienthal's complaints because he had not had a chance to study them. But he said the whole purpose of the article was to examine the atomic policy, to see if it is right, and to see how it is carried out.
Apparently this is one of the passages to which Lilienthal objected.
A fair estimate is that we should now have enough fissionable material fashioned into bomb forms and enough of each component to assemble 400 1940 model bombs within a few hours. I say we should have this, or we could have had this; not that we do have it.
The discussion of security came up during an inquiry into what happened to a bottle or jar of uranium-235 which disappeared from a Chicago atomic laboratory. Despite official explanations, Hickenlooper said, he is "utterly mystified."
He said two vessels have been offered as the original container—(1) a plain fruit jar, and (2) a "brown bottle."
The low Senator also declared the evidence is "far from conclusive" that most of the U-235 itself has been recovered, as claimed by the Atomic Energy Commission.
Hickenlooper delved into the U-235 case as part of his charges before a Senate-House investigating committee that AEC Chairman David E. Lilienthal has guided the nation's atomic program with "incredible mismanagement" during the past two and one-half years.
Dr. Walter H. Zinn, chief of the AEC's Argonne laboratory in Chicago, gave the committee a long and detailed account of what he said had turned up in the investigation of the missing U-235. The loss was discovered last Feb. 7.
Zinn said there is "completely and absolutely" no doubt that the Mason jar was the original container, and he testified that the FBI agrees with that opinion.
The Chicago scientist also said:
1. The investigation disclosed "a slip was made."
2. The U-235, highly enriched, apparently became mixed up with less potent uranium which is handled by the hundreds of pounds, and was buried in a special "graveyard" for safekeeping.
3. Only 3.49 grams of U-235 are still missing, and that would not be "a critical amount" if it fell into unfriendly hands. The rest of the material, a total of 27.31 grams, has been recovered from a 25-pound batch of waste including "some uranium."
Rallings Be Used To Separate Students
NOHMAN, Okla., June 17 (AP)—The University of Oklahoma will use rollings to segregate its new Negro students during classes.
This is the school's answer to the recent legislature's demand for "separate classrooms" in Oklahoma's first law allowing Negroes to attend white colleges.
The university said the rollings are only a temporary solution, however. It is setting up a separate library, toilet and cafeteria facilities for the Negro students.

Expansion Period For the Y.M.C.A.

WASHINGTON, June 17 (AP)—The Young Men's Christian Association is coming into the greatest period of expansion in its history, president Eugene R. McCarthy of the National Y.M.C.A. Council reported Thursday night.
He told National Council members there are 1,583 Y.M.C.A. units in the United States with a combined annual operating cost of $102,000,000.
He said these local associations have plans for a $50,000,000 construction program. There are 325 associations with $34,000,000 on hand for construction work and 130 other groups are campaigning for $25,000,000.
McCarthy said the American Y.M.C.A. now serves 3,500,000 young people, an all time high in the organization's 90-year history.
Seventy new Y.M.C.A. units were organized during 1948.
The National Council meeting here this week-end. About 500 delegates from all parts of the nation will attend to discuss Y.M.C.A. policy.

Nelson Red Cross Prepares

The Nelson chapter of the Red Cross met the evening of June 10 at the Nelson high school in the interest of preparing the community for any emergencies that might arise in the future, such as large fires or tornadoes.
The following committees were appointed: food, Mr. and Mrs. Don Richardson, Mrs. May Polindexter, Miss Catherine Richardson, and Mr. and Mrs. Willy Page; for doctors and medical aid, Mr. and Mrs. Griffith Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Polindexter, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Land, and Miss Ruth Morris; cots and bedding equipment for patients at the school house, Percy Vesser, Raymond Dollard, Harold Holder and James O. Younger.
Each committee has one or more members in the town and one or more in the surrounding area.
Mrs. M. F. Baker, a member of the Saline county board, and Joe W. Newman, chairman of the Nelson chapter of the Red Cross, had charge of the meeting.

Miners Back to The Pits Monday

PITTSBURGH, June 17 (AP)—The nation's 480,000 United Mine Workers will end their week-long walkout on schedule Monday, a high UMW official said Thursday.
"I've just received a telegram from John L. Lewis requesting the miners to go back to the pits," John Bismarck, president of District No. 5 of the UMW, told the Associated Press.

Social Register Aged Lady at Newsstand

NEW YORK, June 17 (AP)—Every day at noon the white-haired lady, in her wheelchair, grumbles out of her apartment building on New York's fashionable east side.
She heads straight for the newsstand on the corner. A few minutes after she arrives, the operator goes off for his lunch and Mrs. E. Hurl Grubb—of the social register—is in charge.
Mrs. Grubb is in her 80's but the customers get the same professional treatment during her hour at the stand that they receive other times.
She makes change quickly, argues newcomers to return, has a cheery word for old customers, apologizes for the temporary absence of a racing form. Many in the neighborhood know her but no one blinks an eye.
Mrs. Grubb is the widow of an ambassador in Spain, mother of a former president of the New York Curb Exchange, and sister of T. O. M. Sopwith, the millionaire English yachtman and airplane manufacturer.
She holds the royal order of Maria Louisa, conferred on her half a century ago by Queen Maria Christia of Spain. She explains "it gives you private entrance to all the courts of Europe" but adds "of course, there are so few courts now."
Mrs. Grubb had a bad accident which required five or six operations about two years ago.
"I found I would never walk again," she said. "I would come in my wheelchair and sit on this corner. And one day I said to the man who ran the stand, 'when do you get your lunch?' and he said, 'well, some days I don't. So I began apoloing him. That's how it all started."
"I got too much credit for doing so little. This has helped me more than it's helped the ones I relieve. Besides, it made me feel I was of some use again."

Report Bucky Walters to Resign

NEW YORK, June 17 (AP)—The New York Herald Tribune in a dispatch from Cincinnati said on Thursday night that Bucky Walters will resign as manager of the Cincinnati Reds within the next month, but the report was promptly denied by Warren Giles, president of the club.
The Herald Tribune said Walters would quit because of ill health and would be replaced by Pepper Martin.
Giles, known as the wild horse of the Cagers, played for the St. Louis Cardinals for many years. He is now managing Miami in the Florida International League (class B).

Ralph Fall to Pittsburgh Baseball Club

Ralph Fall, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Fall, of 1417 West Main street, left Thursday for the Pittsburgh, Pa., baseball team of the K-O-M league at Chantee Kas, where the team was playing that night.

Fall signed a contract with the team, N. Y. club of the St. Louis Browns on June 4 and had been awaiting call to that club. However, the Browns optioned him to the Pittsburgh club, which they also own, in an effort to add strength to the club. Pittsburgh is a Class D league team just a class below the Browns.

The transfer is to his advantage in being closer to home, and also offers the possibility of Sedalia being able to see him play without too long a journey.

John Thomas recently signed a contract with the St. Louis Browns, but he was sent to the St. Louis Browns farm system, and that ball should report to the team at Chantee Kas, Thursday.

At Geneva, Shearer would have got nowhere if he had not had the all too eager cooperation of several U. S. naval officers sent to Geneva, to work for naval limitation. Instead, they did the opposite.

One of Shearer's most active naval collaborators was Adm. Joseph M. Reeves, later exposed as such before the Senate naval affairs committee. During the balance of the Hoover economy drive, the best deal he could get was a heavily diluted deal. But JDR was the admirals' gift from heaven, and under Roosevelt, Reeves was actually rewarded for his lobbying by promotion to be commander-in-chief of the U. S. fleet, a position which he held until President Truman and Louis Johnson to find the Navy leaguer now confronting furiously for the admirals. But it surprises no newspaperman who has watched the admirals work.

You must take off your coat and go to work helping to save the situation, Navy league president Hecht has faithfully written to thousands of people. "You must join our cause," "You must join to defeat the efforts now being made to emasculate our navy and jeopardize our country's safety you can help."

"Stay up interest in your locality," Hecht exhorts. "Talk to your local officials. Write cards to those on those on your Christmas list. Talk to your congressmen and senators. Go to Washington telephone or write your representatives. Ask for copies of material to send your friends. Help arrange for speakers here. Speak up for America and the U. S. Navy."

There is nothing wrong with presenting pro navy or anti-navy views before Congress. The right of petition is guaranteed by the Constitution. It is equally important that the public know who is behind all the propaganda. It is largely either the admirals themselves, or their friends who, in many cases, present from navy contacts.

Note: It is an impossible fact that all of you have unification or you don't. And you can't have it with one branch of the service waging a death battle against its commander.

Club Hears History Of American Flag

Mrs. W. C. Heffelfinger entertained the Oak Point Extension Club at her home June 10, when nine members and four children were present.

During the business session, a letter of thanks for a gift from Mrs. E. P. Kruse, the former Miss Esther Dilsaver, and a letter from Mrs. Katherine Zimmerman Hohn, Demonstration agent of Missouri, was read by the president, Mrs. Norman Gibson. The history of the American flag was given. Father's Day will be observed at the school. Mrs. W. C. Heffelfinger is the new left club leader.

Ku Klux Klan Initiates

A cartoon by Dave Coverly. A man is carrying a large, bulky box on his back. The box is tied with a ribbon at the top and has the words "HOOVER REORGANIZATION PLAN" written on it. Above the man is a speech bubble that says "I'M SELLING ECONOMY!". The man is walking on a path, and the cartoon is signed "Coverly" in the bottom left corner.

COPYRIGHT BY HUGH LAWRENCE ILLSON

THE STORY: A steamer on Spruce Island, eight persons who came to Henry Gough Harding's cabin to get a drink of water, discover a dynamite, the wreckage, has seized the only rifle and has killed himself. Harding, a hunter, kills the "king" of the Muller Shark as his "queen" the only wife of the king. The king has been wrecked during the storm. Then Gough goes to Fred Miller who says he came to the island to blackmail Harding. The king kills Warren and the Simpson's. Then Harding kills the king to avenge the death of her husband, Jim Martin, who killed him as a result of Harding's activities.

"Oh, I found the cleaned up place in the storerooms. You must have missed something else," Fred Stillwell said. "When I had my talk with Harding I told him the gun wasn't mine. I hinted I wasn't satisfied with the woman's death. Maybe I mentioned the funicular and what happens? That very night the wheelbarrow is blown sky high. Whatever evidence there was is gone. I don't need it. I don't have to make a case stand up in court."

"What'd he say when you told him it wasn't your gun?" Bea Coe grove asked.

Stillwell frowned grim at the mention. "Laughed at me. The insult made me sore. I worked all afternoon piling up driftwood for a bonfire. And then I didn't get a chance to light it."

"Did you see him leave while we were the fighting?"

"No. You remember how it was? You were around. Maybe he didn't mean the lie to get out of control or maybe there was something else he wanted to say."

"You think he'd ruin all the work and planning he's put in on this island?"

"He's got a lot of money left," Stillwell reminded her. "He can build again, if he's free."

"What about the dead man?"

"The fisherman? Probably he was snooping around, saw Harding leave the rifle in the shoe"

Miss Ralph Minor told of going to Fayette Mo. when she became a member of the Alpha Phi Omega fraternity of Dramatic.

and stole it. Then he was caught by the fire and killed himself. Anyhow he was plenty drunk."

Fred moved closer to her. "When I went to the cave after the fire, George told me a case had been opened and a couple empties left lying around. He thought I did it."

"You knew about the whiskey in the cave but you went on buying it from him. Why?"

"What's the harm? He kept George happy, thinking he was putting a fast one over on me. I don't mind a one tripping to pick up a couple bucks on the side. And it was funny in a way, George sneaking off and bringing me a bottle when I wanted it. I knew I could get the money back any time I wanted."

"How?"

"Well," laughed, "just ask him for it."

"You remember when George picked up the rifle? It wasn't an empty he ejected."

"Go on."

"No man could have shot himself like that and ejected a spent cartridge afterward. And left a hole in it in the chamber."

Bob smiled and softly, "I was right to play my hunch and talk to you. You keep your eyes open. You're smart." He thought a moment. "You're sure?"

"Yes. I found the live shell. I couldn't find the empty. I looked for it."

"This fits even better. Harding left the fire fighting and went back to blow up the buildings to hide the evidence of his first crime. When the fisherman sees what Harding is doing, he lets him have it so there won't be anyone to blame for the explosion goes to the fisherman! I say! This is worth reading to me. I won't forget it."

"Why couldn't the fisherman have done the dynamiting? Maybe he just had it in for Harding, and let the fire so he wouldn't kill all of us. Any one of us could have come back and shot him after he'd hit the fuses."

"No," Silwell said. "If any of us had shot a dynamite, we'd have stepped forward and got a medal."

"That's reasonable," Bea admitted.

Fred Silwell nodded soberly. "I don't much like the spot I'm in. I can take care of myself, but I don't think this place has a little protection. It'd be harder to get rid of us both."

"Swell of you to include me in," Bea said.

"Skip the sarcasm. You're in already and you know it. The cops are coming, and we'd get away. It's beginning to give me the creeps. Now, the rifle. I want it. We'll have to figure out some way to get from George"

MABEL JONES flung down an armload of wood and watched Bea Cosgrove slack it around a central post.

"It gives us something to do," Mabel said. "We won't sit around and mope."

"You sound as if you expected to be here a long time."

"Why not? The Simpatico isn't due back for a couple months. We were to have a three-month trial, remember. About our only other chance is a fishing boat. But that kind of weather they'll be snafu enough to be somewhere else."

Bea kept still, put the last few pieces of wood on the growing pile.

"And what difference does it make anyhow? To the three of us and Harding, it makes no difference. The outfit can't leave, sure. The outfit may have some expecting maybe to come. I don't see the loss of the house, some comfort and supplies makes much difference. We still got the land. We can still live, we can't get the house rescued." Rescued for what?

"Harding wants to get some more supplies."

Mabel shrugged. "That's all right too, if he want it. We still have plenty of stuff buried though."

"We can get at it eventually. We could build again with what's on hand."

Vacation Costs Begin to Slack Off a Little

By Alexander R. George
WASHINGTON, June 11.—(AP)—Vacation costs, which climbed to an all-time high in the postwar inflation, are leveling off.

Reports to the American Automobile Association (AAA) show a slight trend toward lower rates at summer resorts. The reductions are described as "few" and "moderate," but enough to indicate an increased catering to dollar-minded vacationers.

AAA officials say there are no signs as yet of a pronounced nationwide break in prices. On the other hand, there has been little or no boosting of charges since last summer.

Many hotels and inns have improved their accommodations. Good food is plentiful, entertainment facilities have been increased, and resort operators generally are competing more vigorously for the traveler's favor.

Several motor court operators this spring made "last-hour" reductions of rates where business was below expectations or the competition was keen, according to the AAA.

Aided Accommodations
Construction of motor courts and tourist cabins has eased a post-war shortage of accommodations. The AAA says its reports from states indicate an average 20 per cent increase in lodging facilities since the war, due primarily to new motor courts and cabins.

Auto tourists will find gasoline costs higher in some sections of the country. The AAA reports that 12 states took legislative action in the last year to increase their gasoline taxes, but that some of these increases have not yet become effective.

The AAA figures that the average gasoline price for the nation as a whole was 36.81 cents a gallon on May 1, an advance of one cent from the average for the same month in 1940. Back in June, the far west would cost a couple of cents more, but the average was 35.00 cents. Sixty a day stopping at motor courts. This includes food, lodging.

Plenty of Gasoline
Plenty of gasoline is the prospect for this summer and fall. The Automobile Club of America says that if the couple stops at hotels the

Fine Accommodations

The railroads are offering vacation travelers new streamlined, air-conditioned trains, many equipped with larger windows and "vista domes."

Bus lines are bidding for the travel trade with relatively low fares and new easy-riding buses. Some are air-conditioned, have toilet facilities and snack bars.

Plane service has been more frequent and more comfortable while some lines offer special family rates.

Canada and Mexico have put on their welcome mats for travelers from "the states." Canada, which had a record-breaking influx of U. S. motorists last year, reports a 20 per cent increase this spring.

Mexico is becoming popular with budget-conscious travelers. AAA travel specialists say Mexico is now one of the best travel buys in the world because of the decreased value of the peso.

Travel to Europe this summer and fall is expected to hit a post-war high. The food situation has been greatly improved for travelers in several European countries.

The AAA estimates that 60,000,000 motor tourists will spend watching expenditures more closely.

Chas. W. Green Makes Talk, Missouri

When Charles W. Green, former secretary of the Missouri State Fair, Sedalia, attended a Rotary club meeting in Texarkana, Tex., he heard a Texan talk about Texas. Mr. Green now lives in Moberly where he is secretary-treasurer of the Western Association of the Trotting Horse Breeder's Association. After hearing the Texan extol Texas, he decided to prepare a talk of his own on Missouri and Missourians, for the Moberly Rotary club. Since then he has been called upon to give the talk before other organizations in the state.

Chas. W. Green of Moberly, formerly of Sedalia. When a resident here he was secretary of the Missouri State Fair.

Story of Missouri

"Editorial writers and political students around the nation are saying that the sensational victory of President Truman has restored the American tradition, that a farmer boy can climb to the highest office in the land. For generations to come the story of this amazing Missourian will be told and retold as one of America's greatest political episodes.

"Since last November, writer after writer has visited his home town to learn all they can of the President's family, his early life and background. William Southem, Jr., editor of the Independent-Examiner, has complained that too many of them are prone to dwell too long on the Jesse James gang and similar incidents. There are many other facts about Independence, he argues, that would interest the world in the President's hometown.

"We agree with Mr. Southem, and we add, as we know he would approve, that all of the President's home state has a background and a place in affairs to-day that every American should know about and would consider most interesting.

"The history of Missouri is as colorful and important as any other state. We have time to touch upon it only briefly here, but let it be remembered in this connection, that:

"The State Historical Society of Missouri has the largest paid membership of any such state society in America. It has one of the best indexed libraries of any such group and just one of its collection of books is valued today at more than $130,000.

Some Missouri Firsts

"Being first, the pioneer in many fields is nothing new for Missouri. The cancer hospital at Columbia was the first in the nation to be erected by a state and still is one of the few state institutions in the world devoted exclusively to the care of cancer sufferers. The trachoma hospital at Rolla also was the first of its kind in the United States.

"The first railroad bridge at Glasgow, built in 1879, was the first all-steel bridge of any construction to be erected in the nation. Eads bridge at St. Louis, built in 1874, another steel structure, also won international fame. Colonel Eads, its builder and a Missourian, is the only engineer to have won a place in the New York University Hall of Fame.

"St. Louis University was the first university west of the Mississippi, and Missouri University the first such state institution west of the great river. Culverstockton at Canton was the first co-educational college west of the Mississippi.

"The first railway mail post-office was operated between Hannibal and St. Joseph on the railroad by that name which today is a part of the Burlington.

Cairo, Missouri, was one of the first five places in the nation to have rural free delivery service. Some records say it was the first.

Lowest Gasoline Tax

"Missouri for years has had the lowest gasoline tax in the nation. was the first state to earmark such funds exclusively for high-

Precautions Before You Leave Glaze Bridge in Background

By DAVID G. BAREUTHER

Peace of mind is the key to a real vacation. And one way to make sure that you have it along with you is to close up your house properly and securely so you won't come home to trouble.

Protect your house against fire, burglary and damage from water and vermin while you are away. If you plan to be gone for a month or more, you will want to take more precautions than for a two-weeks trip.

Arrange with a neighbor to keep an eye on your home and remove all circulars that may be left on the doorstep. A house that advertises your absence invites intruders, whether professional burglars or inquisitive children.

For this reason it is wise not to pull blinds or shades, giving the house a closed-up appearance. Make certain that deliveries, such as milk and newspapers, are stopped to avoid doorstep accumulations. Have your mail forwarded or held at the post office. Close your garage doors. And don't leave a note on the door to let callers know you are not at home.

In fact, J. Edgar Hoover, director of the F. B. I., believes many burglaries could be avoided if people would not let strangers know they plan to go away. He also advises strongly against giving anyone the impression that you keep money, jewelry or other valuables in your home.

All windows and doors should be locked securely. Don't overlook basement windows. Never leave a key in the usual hiding places.

If your house is to remain closed for any length of time, it is prudent to open the main electric power switch at the meter and close the main gas valve.

Cutting the main electric power supply, however, turns off an electric refrigerator, and for a short summer absence this is not necessary. Engineers for the National Board of Fire Underwriters advise against turning off refrigerators that are more than a few years old, because the power load required to start them up again can cause undue heating.

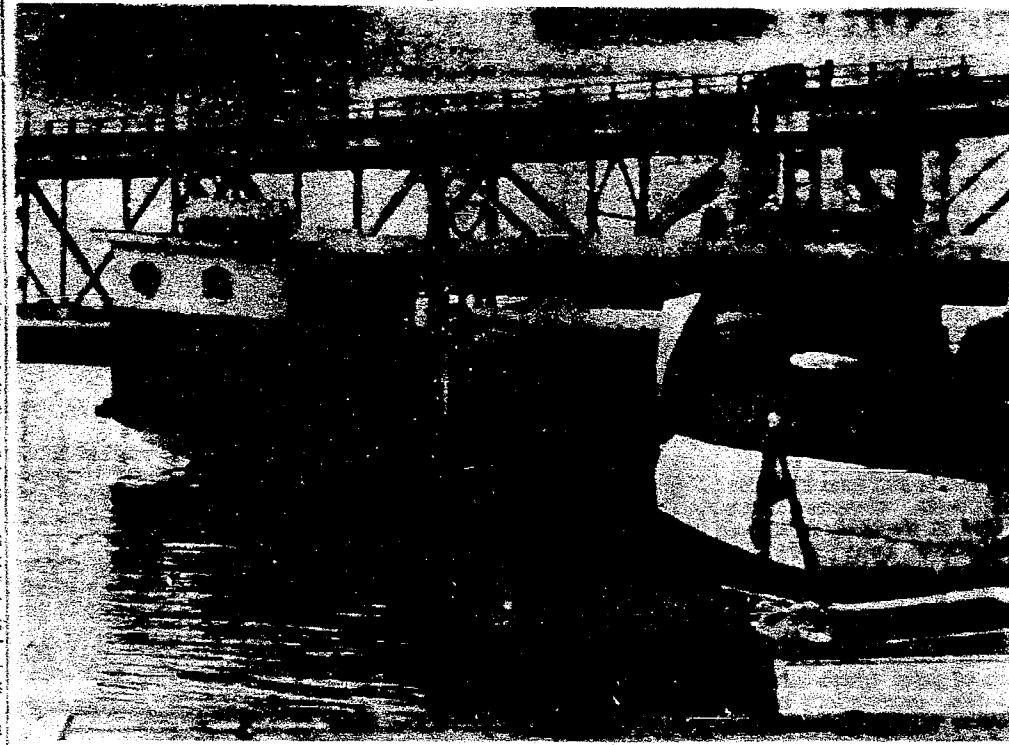

The gas supply for a gas refrigerator, or pilot light on a gas stove should be turned off if there is any danger of a pressure slump extinguishing the flame. Such a danger is more unlikely in summer than in winter, when more gas is being used.

Highly important, however, is the removal of all vases, milk bottles and glasses from window sills, or other places where they may act as magnifiers of the sun's rays and start fires. Also all oily rags and rubbish should be destroyed to prevent spontaneous combustion.

Matches should be placed in metal boxes out of reach of rodents, which have been known to start fires by their gnawing. Chimney tops should be capped with strong wire netting to keep out squirrels and birds.

Store all woolen clothing and blankets in moth-proof closets and treat them with effective insecticides. Close the piano and scatter balls, paradichlorobenzene or naphthalene flakes in it.

If you will take these precautions you will enjoy your vacation with the assurance of as much security as is humanly possible.

One of the many swimmers in the Lake of the Ozarks is shown making a dive. In the background is the Glaze bridge and to the right the boat Governor McClure. (Padgett Photo)

Use of gases under pressure may replace the conventional pumping method as a means of getting oil out of the oil wells. The gas is forced intermittently into a displacement chamber immersed below liquid level in the well.

One-fifth of the British Isles coal is produced in Wales.

Latest pneumatic machine for sorting stones from potatoes simply blows a blast of air at them as the digging machine brings them up. Potatoes, being relatively light, are blown onto a conveyor that removes them for bagging. Potato-sized stones, being heavy, remain behind and are discarded.

Travel Tricks: Dress Comfortably, Pack Wisely, Use Grooming Aids, Says Expert

Simple tricks keep this vacationer comfortable and well-groomed on her travels. She dresses in shorts and top of playsuit for motoring (left) and buttons on unwrinkled skirt when she steps out of car (right). Long evening gown is packed in cleaner's bag to keep it uncrushed on journey. Beauty aids for use in transit are tucked in pockets of shoe bag (center) which is pinned to back of front seat.

The trick of emerging from a long automobile trip looking as though you had stepped out of a handbox is easy to master. All there is to it, according to the vacation-counselor, Carol Lane, are a well-packed bag, car pockets stuffed with handy grooming aids and traveling duds which combine style with comfort.

Miss Lane, who is the travel tips from our expert can be summed up as follows: Tuck stockings to master all of the tricks of dress and shoes and shield shoes turning a car into a gas-propelled handbox. Her method of packing is to put heavy articles at the bottom of the bag. That way, the weighty stuff stays at the bottom and does not fall backward to crush clothes when portable luggage is upped by its handle.

The most useful space-saving device from our expert can be summed up as follows: Tuck stockings to master all of the tricks of dress and shoes and shield shoes turning a car into a gas-propelled handbox. Her method of packing is to put heavy articles at the bottom of the bag. That way, the weighty stuff stays at the bottom and does not fall backward to crush clothes when portable luggage is upped by its handle.

Romantic Reasons

Former American servicemen would return to Britain in large numbers of they had enough money, says J. T. Turbayne, manager of the New York office of the British Travel Association.

"Many want to work their way over or go as students on an exchange basis," he reports, "but the number who can do so is limited."

Many ask the association to learn if their English girl friends still live in the same towns. Some want to make sure they are there. Then, of course, some want to make sure otherwise. "We can't be certain about their reasons," says Mr. Turbayne, diplomatically.

that you'll need a route more accessible, Miss Lane's idea of stuffing an empty shoe bag with essentials is an excellent one. Her trick is to pin such a bag to the upholstery on the back of the front car seat and to fill the pockets with hand lotion, sun lotion, hair nets, skin-freshing pads, sun glasses, tissues, comb and brush, an extra pair of clean white gloves and extra stockings.

Best choice of traveling clothes for the vacationer-on-wheels, says Miss Lane, is a three-piece dark cotton playsuit which combines shirt, shorts and skirt. In the shirt and shorts you can travel in comfort. You can top shorts with the coverup skirt when you want to emerge modestly dressed at stop-over points and when you are ready to step out unsmugged at journey's end.

The first Secretary of Agriculture was Norman J. Coleman of St. Louis, named by President Cleveland in 1889.

St. Louis leads the United States in manufacture of stoves and ranges — is the largest fur packer in the world, the largest island coffee distributing center in the world — has the world's largest brewery.

The Heart of America

"Consider the state itself. It actually is the heart of America, being virtually equidistant from all borders of the nation. It also lies snugly in between the population center and the geographical center of the nation. Its central location also is shown in the fact that it has more states on its borders—eight of them—than any other state except Tennessee, one of its border-line neighbors. Missouri, however, is more centrally located than Tennessee.

"Its strategic place in American economy is shown again in that it is the only state in the union with two federal reserve banks, one at St. Louis and one in Kansas City, and each one serving wide territories beyond the state, the same as do Missouri industries and services.

"Missouri is the crossroads for all transportation and always has been a leader in that field. It was a group of St. Louisans who backed the Lindbergh flight to Paris. Bill Goetz, who broke the world's record in a 100-stop fight from Honolulu to Teterboro, N. J., March 3, was born at Raymore, Missouri.

"Missouri has more rivers and more miles of rivers than any other state. The Missouri, within and along the border of the state, measures 572 miles, and the Mississippi along the entire eastern border of the state, is approximately the same distance. These three give Missouri more than 1,000 miles along two of the nation's greatest waterways.

There are 31 other rivers in the state with a combined total length of more than 1,500 miles. Surveys by the State Conservation Commission show more than 11,000 miles of permanent flowing streams in the state. There also are 8,000 miles of intermittent streams with permanent pools. The total mileage of all major stream channels is 33,000 miles.

"These figures indicate the magnitude of the drainage system, the abundance of water resources, and also the extent of the water control problem.

"Missouri has a variety of resources and products unequalled by any other state. Less known locally, but winning increasing attention in the state and nation, are the cotton fields in some half dozen southeastern counties. The cash return runs into the millions annually.

Industrial Leadership From Missouri

may well be the forerunner of several new industries.

"Science knows how to make gasoline and other products from coal; the job for this plant is to show and develop the know-how for doing it on a profitable commercial scale. Big output will not be the goal, but it will be large enough to show the costs and problems of practical mass production."

Business and Industry

"Missouri has furnished many of the giants of the business world the same as in other fields of endeavor. Two of the best known today are Donald M. Nelson, native of Hannibal, and J. C. Penney of Hamilton, Missouri."

"Nelson attended Hannibal schools where the late Miss Barbara Mullen of Moberly was one of the teachers. She received several letters from him after he became famous. Nelson won a scholarship to the University of Missouri. When he finished there, where he worked his way through to win a degree in chemical engineering, he went to work for Sears, Roebuck Company, intending to save enough money to continue his studies. Instead he became a top executive of that company."

"President Roosevelt named him to the biggest civilian job of the war when he placed him in charge of the powerful War Production board, a position that made him 'czar' of American economy. Since the war he has held a top role in the movie industry."

"Penney, who started his merchandising career as a store clerk in his home town, today is one of the most successful chain store operators in the nation, and also is widely known as a philanthropist. He recently gave more than $100,000 to Hamilton to help build a new high school there. He owns a new farm land in North Missouri and is widely known as a developer and promoter of better livestock. He is the largest individual owner of farm land in Missouri."

Hughes From Lancaster
"Howard Robard Hughes, a founder of the great Hughes Tool Company in Houston, Texas, was a native of Lancaster, Missouri. His brother, Rupert Hughes, also is internationally known as a writer. Howard Hughes left his father's law office to engage in mining in Southwest Missouri. He is one of the first to join in the Texas oil boom and the tools he developed revolutionized the industry. The company is headed today by his son, Howard Hughes, Jr., a great aviation pioneer, movie producer and financier."

"Arthur W. Bush, formerly of Fulton, Missouri, with Henry L. Nunn built up the big Nunn-Bush Shoe Company of Milwaukee, Wisconsin. Missourians still have a big role in the daily active management. Joseph E. Buchanan, formerly of Fulton, became president of the company a little more than a year ago. Donald Bartley, shoe stylist of the company and also from Fulton, was named treasurer of the company at the time of Buchanan's election."

"Gustave B. Margraf, a native of Cape Girardeau, Missouri is a vice president and general attorney for the National Broadcasting Company."

"Bill Brooks of the special events department of the same company also is a Missourian. He took his turn with several of the announcers in covering the political conventions in Philadelphia in 1948."

"Fred G. Gurley, president of the Santa Fe Railroad, hails from Sedalia, Missouri."

"Ben Jones of Calumet Farms, from Hannibal, Missouri, is a top trainer of race horses, has saddled most Derby winners than any trainer in history."

Missouri And The Movies
"In the movie world, Missouri-ans have been leading players since the days of Pearl White, the serial queen who amassed a fortune in keeping firm fans on the edge of their seats as she escaped one villain after another. The White family lived near Sedalia and later near Springfield.

"Joan Crawford, whom some Moberlyans remember as a student at Stephens College in Columbia, climbed to the top, winning an academy award. Wallace and Noah Beery, William Powell, Conrad Nabel and Jean Harlow are Missourians. Nagel lived in Moberly at one time. Ginger Rogers was a native of Independence, Missouri."

"Walt Disney of Marceline and Kansas City is in a class by himself as a producer of fantasies that thrill young and old. Some oldtimers around Marceline remember when he used to draw pictures on barns near there. Disney visited the old home community two years ago and spent two days making color movies of the places and people he knew as a boy."

"Young Jane Wyman of St. Joseph is considered a leading candidate for the academy award this year because of her great success in the film entitled 'Johnny Belinda.'"

Produces Many Journalists

"During the war a Missouri trained correspondent was on duty on every war front in the world, virtually in every war section. Many of them were natives of the state. The Missouri University School of Journalism compiled a list of more than a thousand men who had been its students who had a part in handling the war news from around the globe."

"Wilson Hicks, executive editor of Life Magazine, is from Sedalia and is a relative of the Harver Pilcher family of Moberly."

"Mary Margaret McBride, a native of Paris, Missouri, was a success as a newspaper woman before the war top place among the women news commentators on the radio."

Blonde Inventor's Window Promise, Safer Motoring

Mrs. McKee Stone shines up the clear plastic window which she invented to improve rear vision in a convertible. Window buttons into place when canvas flap is dropped out of way.

By Kay Sherwood
NEA Staff Writer
Every American male from now on who sneers at the woman driver may have to hold down his upper lip before it curls.

A woman driver has invented a safety device for automobiles which will increase the rear vision of every man's convertible (every woman's too, of course) an estimated 500 per cent.

Mrs. McKee Stone, a Washington, D. C., housewife, is the pretty blonde inventor whose safety window of plastic offers a big enough view to the men at the wheel to help him preserve his superior record as a driver.

The window which also makes many a man mutter "why didn't I think of that?" is a clear plastic rectangle which buttons into place when the rear canvas flap of the convertible is dropped out of the way.

"The idea for this device," says Mrs. Stone, who is a chic-looking mother of two sons, "popped into my head because the safety factor of the limited rear vision in my convertible worried me."

Putting her idea into action, she had a plastic window cut and installed. She was pleased with the result. But the effect on passing motorists, taxi-drivers and policemen was sensational.

"Motorists caught up with me on the highway to ask where I got the window. Taxi-drivers stopped me at traffic lights to comment approvingly. Policemen praised the added safety. When one policeman said 'lady there ought to be a law to put that window in every convertible,' I began to think I really had a good salable invention," Mrs. Stone recalls.

Lipstick Prevents Fire

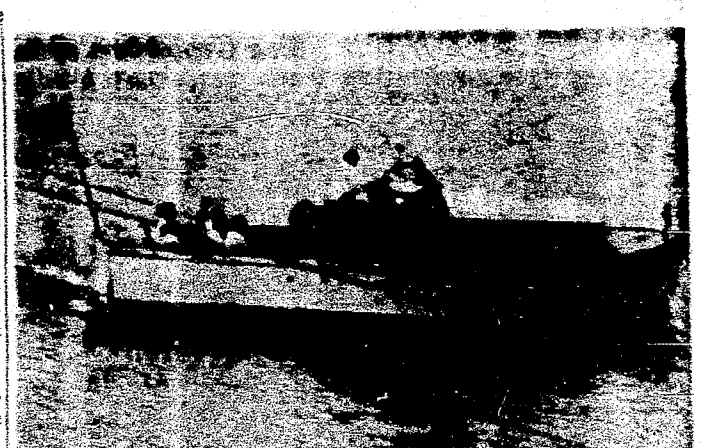

LUCIEN, Okla. — (AP) — A. D. Schnaitman found a new use for lipstick—and prevented a train fire.

While on the station platform here, he saw fire shooting from the journal box on one of the wheels of a freight train. He quickly took his girl friend's lipstick, picked up a piece of cardboard and scrawled "fire." Engineer Otto Brammer and Conductor Dan Wright saw the warning sign and stopped the train in time.

Recreations for Your Leisure Time

"Well, what will we do tonight?—spend a dull evening at home? This statement should not be made in Sedalia with the many recreation facilities provided.

It is evident with the large attendance at Sedalia's four movie theaters that movies are the leading year-around amusement. Between 8,000 and 10,000 people attend movies weekly in Sedalia.

Possibly, the second greatest pastime, especially this time of year, is sports. There's baseball, fishing, camping, hiking, roller skating, golf, tennis, pool, bicycle riding, etc.

Practically every night, a baseball or softball game is played under the lights of Liberty park. Four of Sedalia's public parks are being used for ball games. It is the plan of the park board to install lights at the Southeast park, so that softball may be played at night.

Local Teams

Here are the local baseball and softball teams: Sedalia Athletics, Ban Johnson Chiefs, Sedalia Blues, Junior Legion Post 10 and Post 93, Sedalia Merchants, Knights of Columbus, Sedalia Toppers (girls team) and the Stars' League teams. If this doesn't stimulate enough interest for the baseball minded, there is nearly always a game broadcasted over the radio.

Outside of the Catholic Community Center, creeds and branches, there is no place for swimming, but the two new swimming pools now under construction will definitely be ready for use before the end of the summer. They will be the most modern pools located in this vicinity.

Fishing is also a top recreation during the summer months. Although lately it is asserted that the fish aren't biting too well, but who knows, before the season is over you may catch that "great big one." Flat and Muddy creeks and a number of streams and branches are located close by. One can find any type of fishing there, the best—sit back on the bank and just pole fish, fly fish.

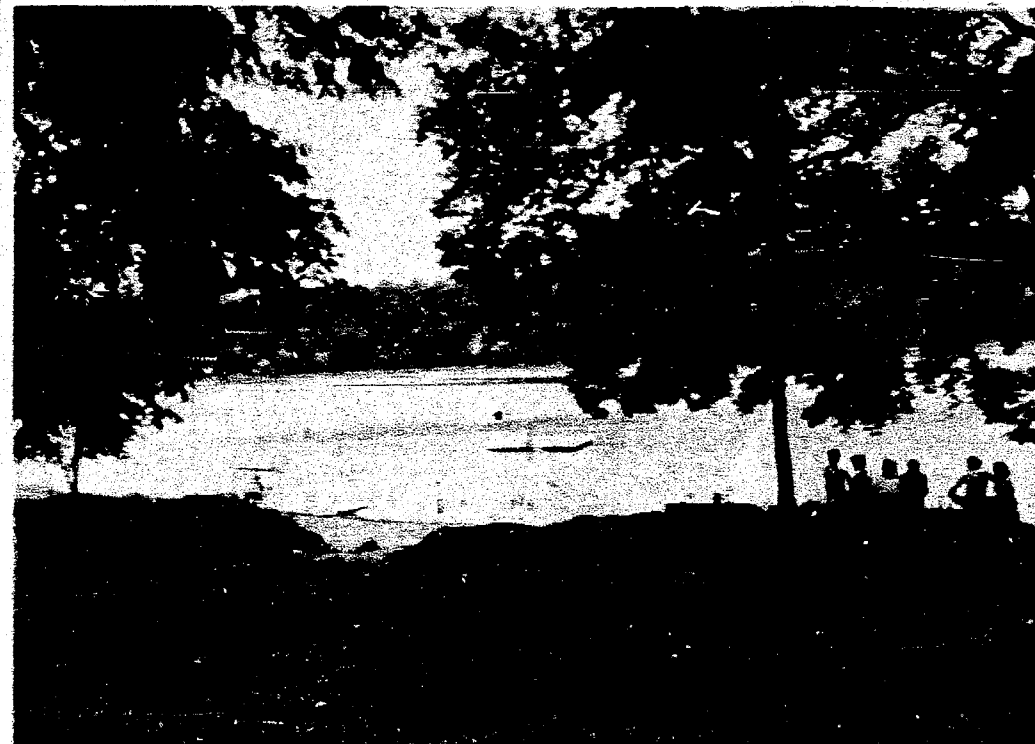

Two Golf Courses

Sedalia has two golf courses for those who love the golfing sport. Sedalians have entered tournaments in other cities, and at the present time, an Inter-City tournament has been announced for Sedalia and other towns, where local golfers will journey.

Lately square dancing has taken Sedalians by storm, and those who square danced years ago have started to take lessons again. Perhaps square dancing will be revived in Sedalia through its start at the Country Club, during the past few months.

Another new source of recreation that has been in effect only a short time, is the shuffleboards scattered throughout the city in various entertainment establishments. The rules of the game are simple, but it requires some skill to roll a good game.

150 Mo. Generals in World War II

sports writer and radio reporter from Boonville.

Ruth Mary Packard, a Kansas Cityan, is one of the fashion editors of the Ladies Home Journal.

First in Army Leadership

Mr. Truman is the first president elected from Missouri, but in army leadership Missouri has a record unsurpassed by any other state.

General Pershing arranged the highest permanent rank ever given an American soldier—general of the armies General Bradley of Moberly in World War I.

was field commander of the greatest number of American troops—1,300,000—in the history of our nation.

The job of mobilizing an army fell to General H. H. Arnold, native of Edinburg, Missouri, in World War I and he drafted the selective service act of 1917.

General Bradley, chief of staff of the army today, is the fourth native Missourian to serve in that office since it was established. No other state has surpassed that mark. Only Pennsylvania, one of the original states, has an equal record.

Missouri provided 150 generals for World War II and several others than Bradley were decorated with the most significant events of the war, both in Europe and the Pacific.

General Jimmy Doolittle of St. Louis led the air raid on Tokyo. Captain Glade B. B. of Sedalia dropped the first atomic bomb on Hiroshima.

Musie and the Stars

Kathleen O'Leary, as you well know, is the daughter of a Moberly woman, Maude Dunlap, and the father of Maude was one of Moberly's early-day mayors and railroad men.

Edna Traubel of St. Louis today is called the third meal ticket of the Metropolitan Opera. This great singer also is a popular figure on the radio.

New Homer Gray Book

Homer Gray of Maryville, Mo., recently spent weeks collecting material for a new Jesse James book. Dale Carnegie, "How to Win Friends and Influence People," is a Missourian from Warrensburg. His daily column in many newspapers is widely read.

Mrs. J. S. Gasparotti of Moberly has enjoyed a wide popularity since winning the $10,000 novel prize in 1938.

Newspapers of the state, both large and small ones, have ranked among the nation's best for years. St. Louis has had a long procession of outstanding newsman. The late Joseph Pulitzer was the most widely known. The Pulitzer prizes he established after his success in St. Louis and later in New York remain today the most coveted awards in several fields of writing and newspaperdom.

The success of the late W. R. Nelson on the Kansas City Star resulted in the establishment at Kansas City of one of the finest art galleries in the nation. Nelson also started Sci-A-Ber farms near Kansas City, for years one of the prime research and demonstration units in better livestock production.

O. O. McIntyre, one of the most popular columnists of modern journalism, often wrote his Missouri background in his New York Day by Day, a column read by millions. He was born at Plantersburg, Missouri.

Hal Boyle, a Pulitzer prize-winner war correspondent and columnist, is a Kansas Cityan. In his days as a student at M. U. he roomed in the home of Mrs. E. E. Tydings for many years a resident of Moberly. Only recently he made reference to her again in one of his columns.

The Associated Press sent a picture of Hal Boyle to the Moberly library and on it Boyle wrote regarding General Bradley—"In tribute to Omar Bradley."

For years he fought the battles of the West in Congress, and Missouri, jumping-off place into the wilderness, became the mother of the west both in statesmanship and pioneering.

"Stephen Fuller Austin of Post, Missouri, for whom the capital of Texas was named, was the founder of that state."

"Judge J. C. Bridgford of Paris, Missouri, was Supreme Court Justice of California."

Governors for 10 States

"Missouri has furnished governors for the following western states: California, Utah, Wyoming, Oregon, Washington, Montana, Colorado, Idaho, New Mexico and Oklahoma."

"John P. Altgeld of Savannah, Missouri, was governor of Illinois in 1892."

"In the building of the West, two men from Randolph County, George W. P. Hunt and James H. Kerby, established a record, probably without equal in American politics. Both formerly resided at Runnerville, Missouri."

"Hunt, originally a prospector in the West, was president of the Arizona constitutional convention in 1910 and first governor of Arizona after it became a state. Elected in 1912, he served seven terms. His tenure in the statehouse ended in 1922. During 1922-1923, he left Arizona to serve as U. S. minister to Spain, accepting an appointment from President Wilson."

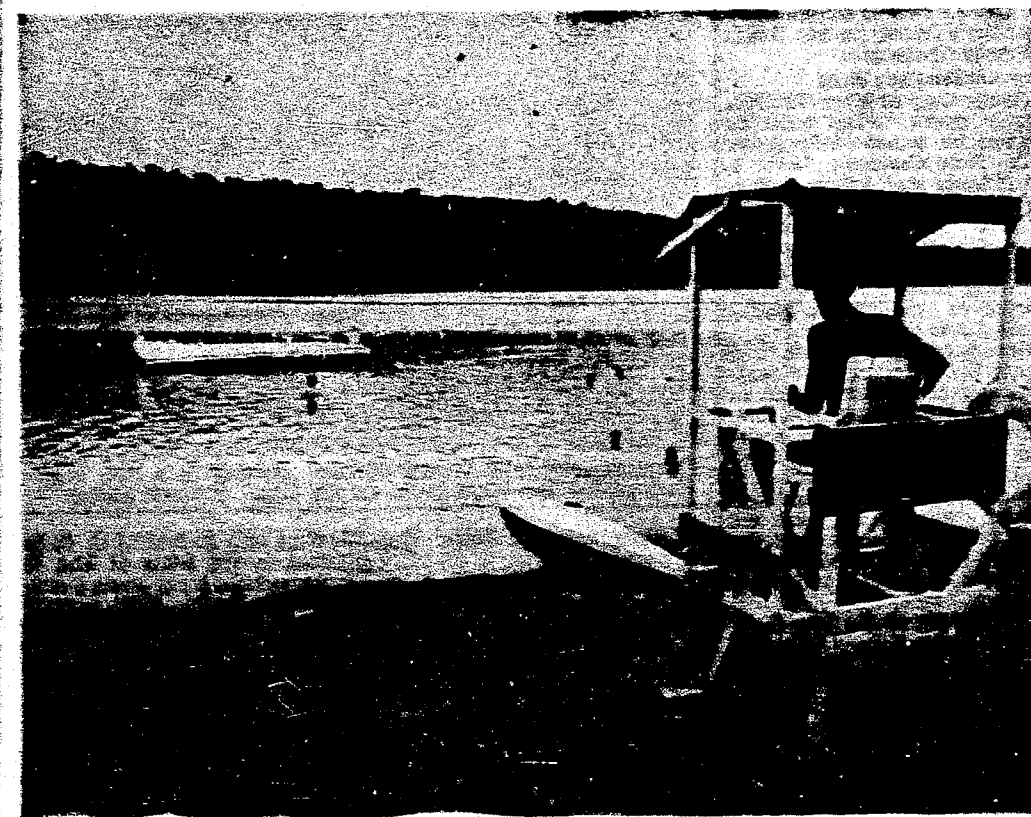

"During part of Hunt's time as governor, Kerby, a Democrat as was Hunt, was secretary of the state of Arizona. He served six terms, taking office the first time in 1923. His last term ended in 1935. Kerby lives in Phoenix."

"Hunt died in 1933 and is buried in Papago Park in Phoenix."

"Judge John C. Young of Colorado Springs is a native of Bolivar, Missouri. He returned from Germany last Christmas where he was presiding judge of Tribunal V at Nurnberg, a court which tried many high ranking Nazis for war crimes. Young is a former chief justice of the supreme court of Colorado."

reared in that town, has been acclaimed in some writings as "the most eminent astronomer in history." He is director of the Wilson observatory of California. He was a Rhodes scholar and practiced law in Kentucky before attaining great success in astronomy.

"Dr. Harlow Sharples, director of Harvard observatory since 1931, served as director of Mount Wilson observatory before going to the Eastern post. He is a native of Nashville, Missouri, and a graduate of Missouri University. He ranks as one of the foremost astronomers today and has received many high awards."

First Political Affairs

"Since the days of the Missouri Compromise, when Missouri was admitted to the Union nearly 150 years ago, this state has been in the forefront of national affairs."

"For many decades her members of Congress were leaders in the capital and in the nation. Much important legislation we enjoy today can be traced to Missourians."

"None of the states are more sensitive to political trends than on the bandwagon of every winning presidential candidate. William Jennings Bryan, when defeated by McKinley in 1900, was the last losing presidential candidate to carry Missouri."

"An early Missourian, James Shields of Carrollton, incidentally, holds a record in elections that stands unbroken today. He was a United States senator from Illinois, Minnesota and Missouri."

"Show You" State

"Speaking at a naval banquet in Philadelphia in 1899, Rep. William D. Vandiver said, and I quote: "I come from a state that raises corn and cotton, cockleburrs and Democrats, and trothly eloquence neither convinces nor satisfies me. I am from Missouri. You have got to show me."

"As you know gentlemen, that statement became a Missouri trademark and Missouri, yesterday and today, not only is a "show me" but a "show you" state. If any state can show a greater record of achievement than Missouri and her people you have got to show me."

Increase in Debits To Deposit Accounts

According to the Monthly Review of the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis general business in Sedalia during April showed debits to deposit accounts at banks in Sedalia aggregated $2,833,000, and were 1 per cent more than those for the same month last year. These debit figures represent for the most part checks against depository accounts in payment of goods, services and debts, and are considered a good indicator of general business activity.

CHICAGO — What happens inside big guns when they are fired is a question ballistics experts are getting set to answer. To do the job, The Armour Research Foundation spent a year and a half devising special equipment.

Built into a large truck trailer, the ballistics measurements laboratory carries electronic apparatus. It will record pressures set up by the discharge of explosives. Some of the things it can measure are stress, temperature and velocity.

Designed for the U. S. Ballistics Research Laboratory, the unit will be used by the army ordnance department at the Aberdeen Proving Ground in Maryland. Dr. E. H. Schuler of the foundation, describes the mobile lab as the "most elaborate and universal of its kind."

More than 350 adjustments may be made on the mass of dials and gauges on the control panels. Six high-speed cameras running at the same time take pictures of wave lines of 14 cathode ray tubes. Termmed an oscillographic unit, the cathode tubes are activated and thus measure the variations of quantity during a gun-firing test.

Fundamentals Of Safety

JEFFERSON CITY — With the summer recreation season hardly under way a number of drownings have recently been reported. Many such tragedies result from disregard of the fundamentals of safety, the Conservation Commission points out, calling attention to these cautions as outlined by the American Red Cross:

1. Wait an hour or two after eating before going swimming.
 2. Don't stay in the water after becoming tired.
 3. Swim only in supervised places and never alone.
 4. Don't overestimate the distance you are able to swim.
- River currents are dangerous and swimmers should never try to buck them. When a person accidentally falls into the water, he should remove as much clothing as possible before attempting to swim out. Care should be exercised in rescuing persons: If possible, use a boat or toss in some floating object.

The Board of Veterans' Appeals is available for rendering final decisions in all cases appealed to the Administrator of Veterans Affairs.

Choose Sports To Suit Age

BY ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

There's something about the combination of summer, sun and sand that makes even oldsters feel like covering, indulging in strenuous calisthenics, staging a comeback on the tennis court or having a hearty go at the lawn mower.
This renewed athletic activity sounds like a good health-making idea, but unfortunately sudden strenuous exercise is potentially dangerous to women who have been out of condition too long.

This oversized beach bag are shir-ing white examples of the difference that can be kept white by washing. Uppers are made of rubberized fabric, soles of cork and rubber for insulation against hot sand and pavement.
The multi-pocketed straps of rubberized fabric hold, which can also go into a washing machine for a quick cleanup, have a thick sponge inside for color comfort, a rubber outside for a nonslip grip on slippery surfaces.

Year-round, day-in, day-out exercise of one kind or another is excellent for everyone, young, old or middle-aged. And women who have kept up this kind of exercise all of their lives can go right ahead with summer activities, regardless of age. But for most women it's only human to let active sports lose out to spectacular sports as family responsibilities get heavier and the body becomes less flexible.

If you're planning to turn over a new leaf this summer—turn it over slowly. At the start it's a wise idea to limit your summer activity to about the same amount as you take during the winter.
You can work up gradually to more muscular activity, but choose exercises carefully. Swimming and walking are fine for practically everyone. Shuffleboard and bowling are possibilities.

When it comes to extra-strenuous tennis, badminton, or handball, better leave it to the "young things" unless of course you've been just short of champion at these sports all along.

Black River Reservoir Has Fine Angling

PHIOMONT—Clearwater reservoir on Black River near here is living up to predictions that it would produce some of the best angling in the state this year.
Figures released this week by the fisheries section of the Missouri Conservation Commission show that anglers took their prey on the newly created lake at the rate of 1.4 of a fish per hour, compared to last year's statewide average of .85 fish per hour.

The figures are based upon a week's catch over Man-gum day weekend, which included a check of 533 anglers who were out for 1511 hours and bagged 1,487 fish. The average angler caught three fish.

Strophiodon, averaging six inches were predominant in the total catch, making up 52 percent of the take.
Large mouth bass accounted for nearly a quarter of all the fish and crappie, while few in number, were surprisingly large, averaging nearly ten inches in length.

Other species and their percentage in the bag were: Long-gar (10.5 percent), bluegill (9.5 percent), white perch (8.5 percent), small mouth bass (4.5 percent), and rock bass (2.5 percent).

Of the anglers contacted, 55 percent were from St. Louis, all but nine of the others were from the vicinity of the new lake.

Fishing success was better than had been anticipated, since the reservoir is only one year old.
The future looks good, too, according to Dr. Paul H. Bachmayer of the fisheries section, who said,
"The peak of fishing success in Clearwater is yet to come."

Progress on Sacred Heart's New Gym

The new gymnasium, (architect's drawing above) being built by Sacred Heart parish, in connection with the grade and high school is rapidly nearing completion.

Scheduled to be Completed Before Schools Start Next September

Work on the new gymnasium of Sacred Heart high school is still progressing ahead of schedule, despite the recent rainy weather, according to H. F. Dean of the Dean Construction company, contractor for the structure.

Mr. Dean stated that he expected all brick-laying work to be completed during the coming week, and that the roof should also be finished by that time. Bricklayers are now working on the second floor of the building, on the south side, which is the last of that work to be done. The steel framework of the roof is completed so that that portion of the building may be finished within a short time. The building is scheduled to be finished completely by August 1, in ample time to be used when school starts in September.

Various Facilities

The gymnasium will contain one of the largest and best basketball and volleyball courts in this area. In addition, there will be badminton, tumbling mats and other gymnasium exercising equipment at the students' disposal. The stage, in the east of the auditorium, will have boxing facilities. Work is also being done in the second floor of the main building in preparation for rearrangement of classrooms for the next school year.

Here's a Tip For Fishermen

COLUMBIA, Mo. — Fishermen here's a tip from Herb Fisher of the university wildlife research unit here, on the use of catfish fat.

Herb finds that some commercial fishermen use catfish fat to help in frying fish, in removing tar from hands, and as an agent in hardening and eliminating the stickiness of tars used on their nets.

Some fishermen use the fat in the treatment of chapped hands, a disorder common among men who frequently dabble in water. A small amount of the fresh fat rubbed on hands makes the skin soft and pliable, but is not expected to replace regular hand lotions since it retains an odor peculiar to the finny tribe.

The widow, children and dependent parents of deceased peacetime veterans may qualify help in removing tar from the veteran's death was due to service.

This 29-year-old former house painter hired 12 men to paint stamped ties, but his clientele still demanded the hand-painted article. Feedbag Fashion Tip

Home-Grown Sackcloth Flowers Bloom on Umbrellas, Scarves

By Espie Kinard
NEA Fashion Editor

NEW YORK — Latest fashion triumph of the feedbag is its Cinderella conquest of the accessory field.

The grain, flour or poultry feedbag which spreads its floral charms over the ribs of umbrellas and makes gay basket-bags, headscarves and wrap-around stoles, proves that the empty sack is worth salvaging.

Whether the home sewer gets the bag blown free of dust, or thoroughly cleaned, the cloth yields its fine cotton fabric. Available at large or small city grocery or rural stores, as many print patterns as counter bought cottons, the feedbag's advantage over cotton in the bolt is its slashed price tag.

As a result, summer accessories in the bag are limited only by the ingenuity of the little woman who pulls them out. Two 100-pound bags will make her a ruffled parasol. There's be enough fabric left from the sunshade to make a draw-string basket bag. The basket comes courtesy of a strawberry crate, stained or painted to disguise its origin.

Only one 100-pound bag is needed to make a sweeping plaid stole. If thread-pulled at the ends, the stole will supply its own fringe.

Another feedbag of any print or color will yield a head scarf that requires only the squaring off and hemming of a 50-pound sack to make a small kerchief. A 100-pound bag will, of course, make a scarf of whopping size.

Tan Pale Legs For Flattery

By Alicia Hart
NEA Staff Writer

"The reason I am embarrassed to appear in a bathing suit is that I hate to bring my legs out in the open. Without stockings, they look so white and imperfect. I usually see so much more glaring in the sunlight," writes a reader who complains of a not uncommon problem of the mature woman.

It is true that legs need the flattery of sheer stockings to veil any defects that may annoy a woman as she grows older. However, these annoyances needn't keep a woman from taking her place in the sun.

A good sun tan is as obliging as stockings for camouflaging many of the imperfections which can be hidden by a flattering film of color.

So, if you're headed for the beach for a summer vacation, why not get a good start on a tan beforehand in the privacy of your backyard?

You can deepen leg color without exposing face or arms if you prefer to keep these areas shielded. Ten or 15 minutes a day in the sunlight is sufficient exposure for a gradually built-up leg tan. If skin is not tawny enough to suit you when you slip into that swim suit, you can deepen the tint and achieve a natural-looking effect that other women will envy by using a color deepening tint designed for faking a tan.

The walrus is closely related to the seal and sea lion.

LITHE LINES AT SEA

By Epic Kinard
NEA Fashion Editor

NEW YORK — If every girl on the beach looks like a beauty contest winner, much of the credit will go to new bathing suit fashions.

The two styles shown are typical of the summer fashions, designed to give nature a helping hand. Credit for flattening planes and molding curves goes to the elasticized fabrics used for both suits.

The fabric seen in the strapless navy and white suit (left) is new blister-knit wool — a puffy texture which allows a style like this one to be built along classically simple lines. The blister-knit puffs are flecked with white and the scalloped top of the suit is edged with red. What gives this suit stretchability for swimming and the cling of a second skin when it's not in motion is an elastic thread knit into the wool.

Metallic rayon taffeta gives glamorous gleam and satin luster, clinging fit to the two-piece swimsuit (right). Combining with the glinting taffeta of colorful stripes are panels of solid color satin luster which give shorts their slim fit and the bandeau bra is flattening curves.

Ruhr Scrap Metal for U. S.

ANTWERP — Five thousand tons of scrap metal from the Ruhr left Antwerp recently for Baltimore. The metal comes mainly from German locomotives which have been broken up. According to Antwerp dock officials more cargoes of scrap will follow at regular intervals.

Vacationing at Home

You don't HAVE to run for mountains or seashore to have a happy vacation.

Anyone with a small lot, a little privacy and a bit of ingenuity can make the grade. And vacation time finds a lot of us with inflexible budgets or home ties that bind. If that's your situation, take a long, intelligent look at your own backyard.

It usually takes wild horses and the concentrated nagging of the whole family to get those of us who are ardent gardeners away during the summer. Even if you've before enjoyed the lure of the hoe and handweeder, think about it in connection with those two or three weeks with pay. There's no better way to get your back sun-burned, as exercise it's got swimming beat, all hollow—and it pays off in something concrete.

Most people consider a vacation a time for sleeping late, loafing in the sun and reading light books. There's no law that says you can't do any of these as well and comfortably at home as abroad.

Do you like swimming? There's probably a pool, beach or swimming hole in your vicinity. Or if you want to do something for the children, how about building a sandcastle, a wading pool or sand box?

Sports? There's golf courses, tennis courts nearby. Any down town greenward is an ideal setting for any number of games. Have you tried your hand at outdoor cooking? You can rack up a fire-place which produces delicious hamburgers and steaks.

While we're on the subject, have you ever done any sightseeing in your own town? Strangers look over the place and find it interesting, so why don't you?

Vacations are a state of mind, anyway, and you can make your two weeks — around-the-house as beneficial as a vacation spent grinning and bearing the tariff. And think of the money you'll save.

Paints a Success Story

RUSH CITY, Minn. — P. — In 1940, Effie Sheldon Bernhoff's husband asked her to try her luck at painting a picture for their home. Her first attempt, a water color, won a blue ribbon at the Minnesota State Fair. Now, she has more than 5,000 separate watercolors and oils in her home. And at a recent "open house," which she holds every year, nearly 1,000 persons from Minnesota and Wisconsin came to view her paintings.

Snappy Play Togs Key Fit to Boy's Figure

These snappy play togs are sized to fit a boy's body measurements. Sailor (far right) sports a cabana suit with printed cotton shorts and jacket and knitted isle shirt. Youngster (right) plays ball in copper-riveted denim shorts, plaid shirt. Striped "gauche" shirt, boxer shorts keep fisherman cool.

By Epic Kinard
NEA Fashion Editor

NEW YORK — A little fellow's body measurements will take the guesswork out of sizing Junior up for play togs that fit.

Mothers who have had to let out squeezing waistbands or hitch up droopy shorts will welcome body measurements which make additional guides to size.

Figuring that the tall and short, the plump and the thin and the average in-between can't be entirely guided to good fit by the number on the tag, one designing friend of small guys has added what each regular size also implies in weight, height and waist-measurement. If little Montgomery's husky proportions tally better with those marked for a size 8 suit than for the size 6 which his Mom's been buying, she can use his "vital statistics" as a clue to better fit. The apple of her eye can be fitted up in snappy fashions with little Beau Brummel appeal. Designed to brighten the waterfront, ready denim shorts with nailhead trim. Such shorts, which sport cowboy-styled pockets reinforced with copper rivets, may be topped off with mad-plaid cotton shirts.

Outfits that can be stripped down to shorts for swimming provide a little playboy with a "capana" jacket. He can also sport a little knit shirt of combed cotton color-blended to the suit of cotton broadcloth splashed with sailboats and other motifs, designed to make "conversation pieces" for style-conscious small fry.

Other suits, styled like a South American gaucho's, combine cotton knit shirts with multicolor chest stripes and boxer shorts of cotton gabardine which will not lose their original measurements in the wash tub and will need no ironing.

Brother's Bright Print Necktie Makes Gay Band for Sister's Hat

To pep up her straw sun-shade this girl encircles the hat crown with a man's polka-dotted tie and knots it at the side in a four-in-hand. A short hat pin secures the knot.

By Alicia Hart
NEA Staff Writer

Any chance of borrowing or wheeling a bright print necktie from your dad's husband's or brother's supply?

If so, there's a fashion flunkey ahead for the necktie as a gay hatband for your summer straw.

If a top drawer New York milliner can make effective use of a man's necktie as a smart hatband, so can you. Tie and drape the one that you can lay hands on exactly as does the milliner who adds this trick to his repertoire. Encircle the crown of your straw sailor, roller or floppy sun-shade with the necktie and tie it man-styled in a four-in-hand knot.

If you want to use still another trick that the milliner uses, stick short braid into the knot. Tie a man lances his cravat with a necktie pin.

Varied Interests Add Spice to Life

Alicia Hart's Tips to Bachelor Girls:

A creative hobby of painting and volunteer work as a Girl Scout leader make life more stimulating for this bachelor girl. Painting in the park, she passes to compare notes with another amateur artist. Pictured below at the volunteer work she explains nature study to a Brownie.

The bachelor girl who envies her married friends can spend her time to better advantage making a fuller and more stimulating life for herself.
The more stimulating her interests are, the better will be her chances to swap her life of single blessedness for one of married bliss, contends a bachelor girl who has written a book on this subject.
The way to make life more stimulating, says Jean Van Evers, author of "How to Be Happy

Volunteer service work provides another rewarding interest for the bachelor girl maintains the author. The feeling of lending a helping

Buying Vacation Togs Hastily Can Turn Into Costly Mistake

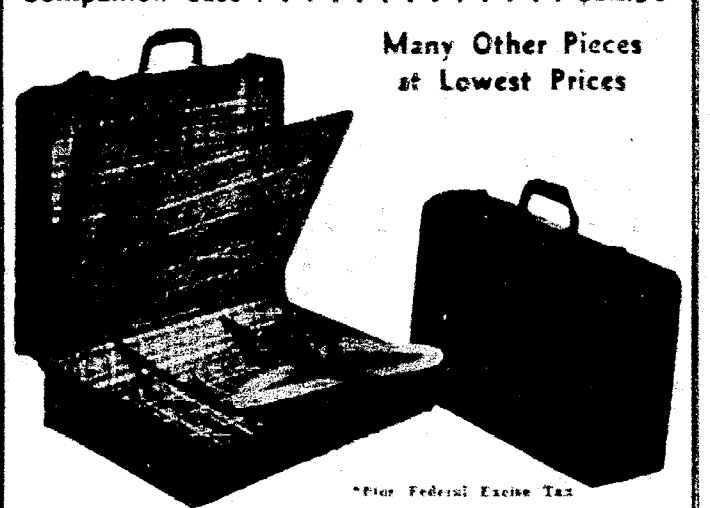

By Alicia Hart
Some of the costliest mistakes made by vacationers can be chalked up to haste in buying new duds for a holiday.
Nothing could be nicer, of course, than having new clothes for a vacation. Smart, spanking fresh finery which serves to bolster self-confidence will help you to master your new environment. New finery will fill that bill, however, only if it meets a wardrobe need, fits perfectly and travels well. The ability to meet these demands should be the text of every garment considered as a contender for limited luggage space.
So often, the clothes which are bought on a last-minute impulse to have "something new" go back into the suitcase after the first vacation tryout.
Perhaps they can be fitted to your figure and adapted to your wardrobe needs when you return home, but even so, such new clothes will not have added anything to your vacation.
Rather than risk cluttering up suitcases with clothes which you can't wear — this must be a typical problem — or so many women wouldn't admit making such mistakes — plan in advance and with care what your vacation wardrobe will require. You can make doubly sure that every addition is going to fill the bill by giving each play or swim suit, dance frock or pair of slacks a dress rehearsal by wearing these clothes at home before you pack.

What Travelers Ought to Know About Luggage

Matched sets of luggage can be yours on a slim budget. Start with one piece, in the leather and style you prefer. Then add to your collection from time to time. A big advantage of the matched set, aside from swank appearance, is easy identification.
Names indicate the general usage of luggage. An overnight or train case is good for short trips. Week-enders hold an average four day wardrobe. Pullman cases are larger and roomier.
Borrowing luggage is a habit that's gradually lessening. Many people prize their cases as personal possessions and feel uncomfortable about loaning them. Any fashion-wise travelers disapprove of the odd assortments of colors that clash with their wardrobes. What's more, depending on borrowed bags may mar an otherwise perfect vacation because they aren't designed to fit the wardrobe you plan for your trip.
Airlines in the U. S. and Canada allow 40 pounds of free baggage. South American limit is 35 pounds, and trans-ocean flights permit 66 pounds. Average weights may be figured at 15 pounds for a wardrobe case, 35 for a pullman case, and 66 pounds for a trunk.
Luggage manufacturers advise these rules for proper care: 1. Avoid dampness or extreme temperature in storing. 2. Never put bags away partly open. 3. Don't overload. 4. Never oil locks or hardware. 5. Clean luggage after each trip or at least twice a year.
In buying new luggage, look for light weight, roominess, secure locks, reinforced corners, metal studs on the bottom, and color-matched linings. Make sure

Childhood Precautions Bar Trouble Afoot

Watch Shoe Sizes, Mothers Couseled

By Alicia Hart
NEA Staff Writer

You can stop such potential miseries by paying more than perfunctory attention to shoe buying for that active offspring. Double check for good heel fit and enough toe room, 1/2 to 3/4 inches beyond longest toe, to allow for wriggling under full body weight. Socks inside should have long in rubber sneakers or 1 1/2-inch toe space allowance, too.

Scuffproof, indestructible, heavy-duty shoes may sound like a good investment, but for two reasons they're not, the podiatrists contend. These men who take foot troubles in hand give as reason No. 1: Children's foot sizes change every one to three months. So quality for disability compensation.

"Once the kids are "shoed," the overseeing doesn't cease. Good posture comes next. The right walking position, toes straight ahead, inner heel and big toe in line, can be taught and one of the best ways to teach this alignment is to induct your child into the "footprint" game.

Your prop for this game is a walking chart made at home from black linoleum, dark paper, or dark cloth with straight-toed, properly spaced "footprints" painted in white. It's good rainy-day fun to have the kids practice matching steps with the "foot-

Sprightly Patterns Spice Summer Scene

Vivid cotton fashions such as these, photographed in New Orleans' famous French Quarter, will brighten up the summer vacation scene. The sunset colored plaid dress (left), which is sunburst-styled, is modestly covered by a tri-cornered scarf. Pin stripes are angled horizontally to accentuate the triple-banded skirt of the dinner dress (center) which has matching stole. Traveler's suit (right), is softly tailored in dark plaid to look cool and smart, has a jacket with nipped-in waistline and turn-down collar topping a bias-cut skirt.

Brightest of the sunset colored cottons makes a sunburst dress which can take Old Sol by day, double at dusk as a cocktail dress.

What adds the night time glamor to this dress with a full skirt and a neat top, is a small tri-cornered scarf of matching plaid.

"Among the world's finest cottons," says Miss Cox, "are the fine-count fabrics with subtle colors and lasting dyes which come from Scotland."

These, which take authentic plain plaids in dark dyes and crisp finishes, are translated into what she calls a "typically American" summer suit: a bias-cut skirt for slimming, a simple muslin-proof jacket with three-quarter sleeves and a small turn-down collar.

Designers' praise also goes from Miss Cox to U. S.-famed Hope Skillman for distinguished cotton textile designs which, according to Miss Cox, quite often call their own styling cues for dresses.

Example is the "square dance" pin stripe cotton for which Miss Cox let the fabric have its own way when she designed a dinner dress with a long matching stole, skirted to a center neckband. On the banded skirt and shoulder-strapped bodice of the dress for which the cotton print called its own styling cues, the print stripes are horizontally lined up.

Vacation Jobs Test Maturity

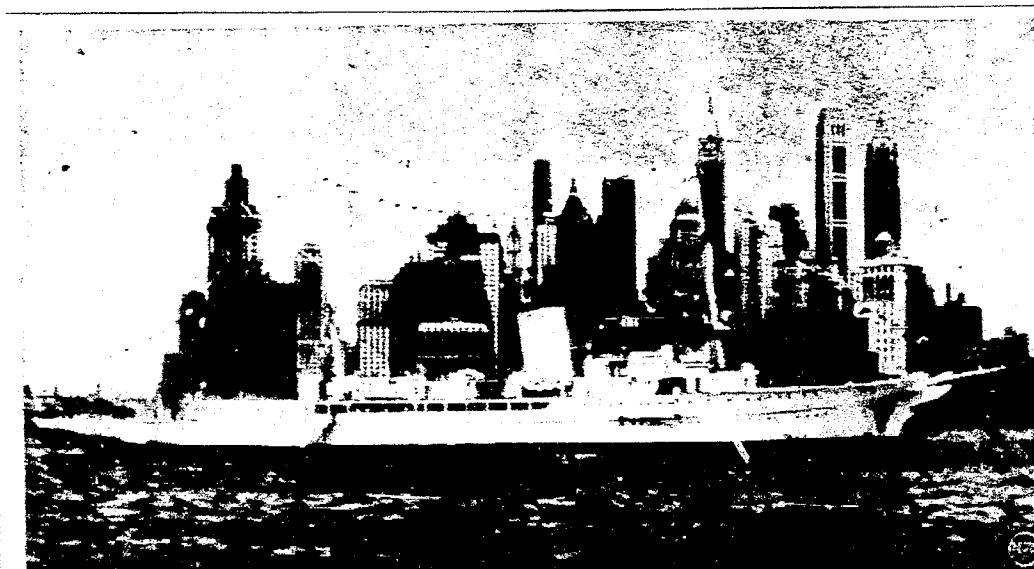

By Alicia Hart

High school and college girls who expect clouds of glory and easy money when they take a vacation job this summer had better prepare for the responsibilities and realities of the working world instead.

You may be just marking time, but the only time your superiors will mark is the hour you amble in morning and the hour you waltz out.

If you're serious and really apply yourself, a vacation job can pay off in new skills. Salesgirls, for example, can develop poise about and ease in handling people. You can learn the weight of a smile, a pleasant manner and a little polished psychology.

A job, even a temporary one, means instant Rome that is one step out of the ordinary. The teen-age house mothers were on the spot will have to cope with multi-million payroll.

HITLER'S "WHIM" ON SHOW—The Grille, Hitler's luxury yacht, glides into New York harbor after a 15-day voyage from Gibraltar. It's now owned by George Arida, British-born Middle Eastern textile millionaire. He bought the Grille (German for "whim") from the British Admiralty at an auction in 1946 and will exhibit it in this country for charity.

adult problems, to make decisions and take responsibility for mistakes and failures. You will learn lots of things. To take orders without back talk, on one hand, and show initiative on the other; that co-workers judge by results, not by good intentions. You'll learn also that taking facts might have rated "passing" in school, but will rate "failure" with the boss.

You might as well start re-orienting with the notion that the Cinderella legend has some flaws in it. By the end of your working summer you'll know for sure that the successful men and women around you got that way by means of solid work and extra effort with little or no help from a fairy godmother.

One of the earliest forms of naval attack was ramming of one boat by another and navy ships will mark is the hour you amble in morning and the hour you waltz out.

The proportion of Negroes in the population of the United States has increased from about one-eighth in 1790 to less than one-tenth today.

Plagues of mice were so common in ancient Rome that it was one of the signs of a city's decay. The teen-age house mothers were on the spot will have to cope with multi-million payroll.

Many Sedalians Have Cabins

Many sportsmen and vacationists from Sedalia have their own private cabins on the lake. Some have become places of real luxury and are modern in every respect. These private cabins are used at week ends, on vacations and those who can afford to, spend a large part of the summer living there and absorb the healthful, invigorating atmosphere that surrounds the green covered hills and shimmering waters of the "Lake of the Ozarks," the playground of the middle west.

Disposable Two-Part Baby Panty Cuts Corners on Diaper Detail

James H. Rand, III, (left) has made the latest change in three-cornered baby's pants and mom (below) approves the new disposable, absorbent pad concealed by plastic "envelope" diaper. Outer covering is pre-cut to fit infant snugly about waist.

CLEVELAND — In the matter of baby diapers a certain amount of change is inevitable. But a Cleveland inventor has produced a fundamental change in baby's diapers which, in the end, should make more comfortable the swaddling days of every father's son — and daughter.

James H. Rand, III, working in his converted stable laboratory at Bratenahl, Ohio, a Cleveland suburb, has developed a radically new disposable diaper said to be longer-wearing, more sanitary, more comfortable than anything previously developed in its line. The Rand diaper consists of a plastic outer "envelope" into which is inserted a newly-developed, highly absorbent pad of non-woven cellulose cloth and similar materials. The diaper and pad are so designed that they scarcely touch the baby's tender skin at any place except the waistline. And the pad is chemically treated to absorb hurriedly and carry away from the baby's skin the wetness which so often causes diaper rash and bladder infections.

Rand tackled the problem at the request of Dr. Charles F. McKinnon, head of Babies' and Children's hospital in Cleveland, and professor of pediatrics at Western Research university. "It was just about the pickiest job we've ever tackled," says Rand with a grin. "The first thing we had to do, believe it or not," Rand says, "was to measure the bottoms of hundreds of babies. Strange as it seems, nobody apparently had previously taken such measurements. At least there weren't any figures available on them."

CHANNEL SWIMMER — Shirley May France swims from Mt. Hope Bay, South Somerset, Mass., where the 16-year-old, 177-pound high school sophomore has been under rigid training. Holder of the women's professional five, 10 and 12-mile records, she will attempt to swim the English Channel late next month or early in August, depending upon the tides.
